ANOTHER WEEK OF WAR.

mmary of the News Since Our Last Issue.

SATURDAY'S NEWS.

Disaffection among Russian troops s resulted in an important gain of ound by the Germans and Ausans to the region of Zlochoff, east Lemberg, the Galician capital. Persistent German attacks at first re repulsed by the Russians. Later Russian regiment near the center the line voluntarily left its trench and retired, forcing the other unon the line to fall back. This vement, Petrograd says, gave the rmans opportunity for developing eir movement.

Some Russian troops are reported have refused to obey their comnders under the influence of the remists, who brought about the rent disorders in the Russian capital. Prince Leopold led the Austro-Gern advance in person and his oops, Berlin says, occupied three nes of defence and captured a "few ousand" prisoners.

Northwest of Halicz the Russians ve evacuated Bludniki. Near zezany, between Halicz and Zlochff, the Russians have repulsed Gern efforts. A Russian offensive vement near Novica, south of Kaz, brought no important gain.

An attempt to assassinate Alexanr Kernesky, the Russian minister war, who encouraged the Russian diers to take the offensive on July has failed. A shot fired at the nister in the town of Polotsk misshim.

Dr. Michaelis, the new Imperial rman Chancellor, in his address to Reichstag, declared his adhesion Germany's submarine campaign, erting it to be a lawful measure, stifiably adopted and adapted for ortening the war. Dr. Michaelis ened his Reichstag speech with a arty tribute to Dr. von Bethmannllweg, the retiring Imperial Chanlor, whose work, he said, history uld appreciate.

The Chancellor declared that the r was forced upon unwilling Gerny by the Russian mobilization d that the submarine war was also ced upon Germany by Great Brit's illegal blockade for starvation r.

The faint hope that America, at head of the neutrals, would check eat Britain's illegality was vain, rmany's final attempt to avoid the tremity by a peace offer failed, and submarine campaign therefore s adopted, said the Chancellor.

The submarines, the speaker conued, had done all and more than been expected, and the false ophets who had predicted the end the war at a definite time had ne a disservice to the Fatherland.

German casualties reported in the rman official lists during June, but t as having occurred in June, are ven out by the war office here as lows: Killed and died of wounds, ,819; died of sickness, 3,215; prisers and missing, 28,606. The totof the German official lists since war began are as follows: Killed died of wounds, 1,032,800; died sickness, 72,960. Prisoners and ssing, 591,996; wounded, 2,825,-1; total, 4,523,307. The naval d colonial casualties are not inded.

The Germans made a general atk on the whole sector of the Aisne nt, between Craonne and Vaure, using large bodies of troops. e French war office announces t the French withstood their furis assaults and maintained their sitions everywhere. The ground fore the French positions was ewn with German dead.

Artillery activity in Flanders inased to extreme violence, says the rman war office statement. Part the French positions on the Winburg were captured by the Gerns. Later some of these trenches re abandoned during a French atk.

Three Pennsylvania cities, Harrisrg, Lancaster and Wilkes-Barre, eady have furnished so many volteers to federal troops and the nanal guard that no men will be led under the draft for the first tional army. Union county boasts same proud record.

Total loans by the United States to eat Britain, including the eighty- million dollars placed to that intry's credit July 20, stand at 70,000,000, and the grand total of loans to the allies at $1,388,000,-0.

Figures in the possession of the vernment, based on the best inportion within reach of the allies, ke it appear that since the beging of the German ruthless submae warfare, the destruction of merantment hitherto available for Ente commerce has been at least four es the amount of tonnage built. e figures show the losses to be avging about 1,000,000 tons "dead ight" monthly, this including the ight of cargo, whereas the weekly tements from London are based on regulated tonnage.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels ask Congress for an urgency deficienappropriation of $137,000,000 for upkeep of the naval establishnt during the fiscal year. An appriation of $7,500,000 is sought the enlargement of the naval gun tory at the navy yards, Washing, D. C. An appropriation of $90,-),000 is sought for the purchase of out 25 acres of land for additions the submarine base at New Lon, Conn.

The Navy Department's two-fold gram in this war, based partly up the prospect of perfecting a de to detect submarines at ten les, was outlined in the New York rld. If the device is perfected— l the best brains in this country secretly working on it day and ht a cordon of destroyers will tle the U boats at their base. If n't a combined naval and aerial ack must be made upon the Ger- coast and the coast of gium. The submarine U is ead must be eliminated before war is won.

The War Department announced t it will be impossible for the ited States to furnish artillery for American armies abroad and that nce will be called upon to supplit m. The official statement an ced it would be [illegible] for this country to try to build guns fast enough and that the comparatively few now on hand would be used for training the new armies. French type of munition must be used and American gunners must learn to handle the French field pieces. The decision of the War Department virtually eliminates the Ordnance Bureau as a factor in the field in which it was supposed to be preeminent.

The War Bureau already has announced that the Springfield rifle which this government perfected and considered the best gun of its character, also will be thrown out of use immediately and the British rifle will be used, because this country has no facilities with which to turn them out fast enough.

The shelving of American artillery and the American rifles leaves the Colt automatic revolver virtually the only acepted weapon which the United States troops will use abroad.

MONDAY'S NEWS.

Another daylight raid, carried out over the east coast of England Sunday, resulted in the repulse of about 20 German airplanes after they had dropped a number of bombs over Felixstowe and Harwich, killing 11 persons and injuring 26. An alarm was sounded in London, but before the Germans could reach any point near the city they were attacked heavily by defending squadrons of aircraft, which speedily caused them to change their minds and beat a hasty retreat. So far one of the machines has been reported brought down.

Those selected for service under the draft will be permitted to enlist in the Regular Army or National Guard at any time prior to their call for examination before exemption boards, probably ten days hence, Provost Marshal General Crowder announced. They will not be allowed, however, to join the Marine Corps. The first men selected probably will be detailed to the regular army in order to bring that branch up to its full war strength of 300,000, if the 35,000 enlistments needed are not obtained before examinations begin. The rest will be put into the National Guard. Exemption machinery for virtually the entire country is complete.

Siam has declared that a state of war exists with Germany and Austria, according to a Reuter dispatch from Bangkok. Nine steamers, aggregating 19,000 tons, have been seized. All Germans and Austrians, the dispatch says, have been placed under arrest and their business closed.

Reliable reports from Romanshorn says that airplanes of the latest models, manufactured at the Zeppelin factory at Fredrichshafen, daily are to be seen flying over Lake Constance. The reports add that the discontinuance of construction of Zeppelins was due to the fact that German headquarters became convinced that Zeppelins were of little war value, and that supremacy in the air in the future belonged to airplanes. The Germans also are said to fear an extensive American aerial program, and that therefore airplane construction has been started by them. It is stated that the workmen in all the Zeppelin factories in Germany have been doubled in number.

The French and Russian fronts continue the scenes of the greatest military activity. In France in the region between Soissons and Rhelms, the French have again given an exhibition of their tenacious ability like that which held the Germans back from Verdun; in the cast the Russian line in Galicia apparently is crumbling by reason of the disaffection of some of the troops and the vicious assaults the Germans and Austro-Hungarians, especially the Germans, are throwing against it.

Notwithstanding the heavy losses the Germans had thus far sustained in their attacks along the Chemin des Dames in France, they again Sunday made fruitless efforts to defeat Gen. Petain's forces, delivering at various points attacks with large effectives, among whom were fresh reinforcements.

From Epine de Chevregny to the south of Corbeny, approximately 12 miles, the artillery of the Crown Prince pounded the French positions mercilessly, after which the leash was slipped from the infantry, which atacked on several sectors, only to meet with a galling fire from the French rifles and machine guns. Often the opposing troops came into hand-to-hand encounters. Several times the Germans reached the Casemates plateau, but each time were driven back, suffering enormous casualties. Only at one point, the Californie plateau, were they able to gain a footing, and here the position is still in dispute in a stuborn battle for supremacy.

With the continued forward press of the Germans in the region of Zlochoff, Galicia, the Russian line on the front south of Brezeany is beginning to give way, according to the latest German official communication. The Sereth bridge head near Tarnopol has been reached by the Germans and at several points the railway running from Kozowa to Tarnopol has been taken. The Russians in their retreat have set on fire the town of Tarnopol and villages to the east. Should the Russian line immediately south of Brzezany give way, it is probable that the Russians will be forced to retreat from the region of Halicz.

M. Kerensky, the Russian premier, who personally commanded the Russian forces when they started their offensive in Galicia early in July, against has gone to the fighting front, probably in an effort to put down the disaffection among the troops and have them face the enemy again. Emperor William also is reported to have started for the eastern front.

[illegible] Delegates and the Peasants' Congress, realizing that a man of ability of the highest order was required at the present puncture to strengthen the morale of the Russian troops, has given "unlimited powers" to Premier M. Kerensky and his government.

The Germans apparently have ceased, for the time being at least, their fierce infantry onslaughts against the French along the Chemin des Dames in France, which have cost them dearly in men killed, wounded or taken prisoners, when compared with the extremely small amount of ground they gained.

The latest French official communication announces that Monday saw no infantry action in this region, although about Hurtebise and Craonne, particularly on the Californie plateau, the Germans continued their violent bombardment of the French position. Near Cerny the French themselves took the initiative in a small operation and gained ground and captured men of the army of the German Crown Prince.

The Canadians have taken another hack at the German line protecting the coal fields south of Lens and again have appreciably advanced their line. Although the British communication does not give the extent of the success, merely announcing that the troops reached their objective with slight losses, the Associated Press correspondent with the British forces says the Canadians forced their way to the second line of German defenses along a front of 700 yards and bombed and destroyed positions and took prisoners.

RED CROSS AT ANTRIM.

Branch Starts Out With Large Membership Which Is Growing Fast.

Have you joined the Red Cross yet? If you haven't, do so; don't be satisfied by saying I'll knit, sew or anything you want me to do but I don't think I'll join. We want workers, we need workers, and we also need your dollars to buy material.

A fine start was made at Antrim when 250 members enrolled as a branch of the Tioga County Chapter of the American Red Cross. A rally was held in the town hall Monday evening, July 16, when Mr. W. L. McCarty, of Corning, explained fully the Red Cross organization, showing to a large audience every detail of the work of all committees necessary to carry on a branch of the American Red Cross.

These committees have seventy men and women who have pledged themselves to work, and work they will when it is for so noble a cause as the American Red Cross.

After listening to the interesting and instructive things Mr. McCarty had in store for us, we were more than surprised when Hon. Walter T. Merrick, of Wellsboro, gave us a speech so full of patriotism and sympathy for our soldiers that his speech alone makes you feel as though your must belong to the Red Cross and do your share if ever so small. His words so well spoken will long be remembered by all who heard him.

Mr. Chas. L. Miller of Wellsboro, showed us what large quantities of supplies were needed—cotton, not by the roll or pound but by the ton; gauze for bandages not by the yard, but by the mile, so why not pay your dollar and become a members to help buy these tons of cotton and miles of gauze if we do no more.

The audience then sang "America," lead by Mr. William Howell, Sr., the chairman of the meeting, and it was sung as only patriots can sing.

The ladies of Trinity Parish have given their Parish House for headquarters to be open Wednesday afternoons and evening.

Mrs. RAY FOX,
Chairman of Enrollment.

[illegible] to the great amount of work [illegible] to arrange and set up the registration [illegible] we did not have [illegible] set up the paper [illegible] week. We regret our inability [illegible] but hope to be pardoned this time. To delay the paper would disappoint many who want to see "where they stand" on the list.

TEMPERANCE WORK.

The Annual Convention of the W. C. T. U. in Wellsboro Last Week.

The thirty-fourth annual convention of the Tioga County Women's Christian Temperance Union convened in the Baptist church in Wellsboro on Thursday afternoon, July 19th. The president, Mrs. M. N. Edwards, called the convention to order at 2 o'clock and introduced Mrs. H. C. Graves, of Mansfield, who led in a beautiful consecration service.

After roll call of officers and superintendents and appointment of committees the afternoon was spent in listening to reports of superintendents and the report of the corresponding secretary.

During the afternoon session two clergymen were introduced to the convention, Rev. Mr. Sheriff, the pastor of the Baptist church, and Rev. Mr. Hayes, the speaker of the evening. Rev. Mr. Sheriff in a cordial manner extended a welcome to the convention in behalf of his church.

At the evening session Rev. Mr. Sheriff led the devotionals and again assured the convention of a most hearty welcome to his church.

Mrs. F. H. Rockwell, in behalf of the Wellsboro Union, gave the address of welcome. This address not only rang with a true note of welcome but gave in a most comprehensive manner the work of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, its past achievements and future aims and high ideals.

In the absence of Rev. Emma Bailey, of Mansfield, the response to the address of welcome was given by the president, Mrs. M. N. Edwards, in a few well chosen words.

The convention had expected to have for the speaker of the evening the State President, Mrs. Ella M. George, of Beaver Falls. At the last moment word came that Mrs. George could not be present and Rev. Mr. Hayes, of Westfield, very acceptably gave the address of the evening. The lecturer spoke on the temperance question from its economic phaze, giving many facts and statistics to prove the awful waste due to intemperance. This common-sense view of the question could not help but impress all present with the crying demand for prohibition of the liquor traffic from the economic viewpoint, if the people were moved by no loftier sentiment.

Mrs. McNaughton, the county treasurer, gave the offeratory address, which resulted in a good offering for the country work.

The greater part of Friday morning was given to reports from different superintendents, also the treasurer's report, showing the year's receipts to have been over $208, leaving a balance in the treasury, after dues to state and other bills were paid, of $67.64. The treat of this session was the president's address by Mrs. M. N. Edwards. This address, which was full of beautiful thoughts clothed in beautiful language, is to be printed in full, so we will make no review of it.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as fololws: President, Mrs. M. N. Edwards, of Potter Brook; Vice-President, Mrs. I. H. Horton, of Mansfield; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Myra B. Allen, of Mansfield; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Jessamine Catlin, of Mansfield; Treasurer, Mrs. Emma McNaughton, of Nelson; County Organizer, Mrs. Lucy B. Rockwell, of Wellsboro; Branch Secretaries: Y. P. B., Miss Vivian Baity, of Wellsboro; L. T. L., Mrs. Eliza Brace, of Lawrence Corners; F. L. B., Miss Esthel Lind, of Tioga; Musical Director, Mrs. L. B. Shaw, of Mansfield. After noontide prayer the convention adjourned until 1:30.

The afternoon session was also given to reports by superintendents of the various departments of work in which the W. C. T. U. is engaged. During the sessions reports were heard from twenty-six departments of work, and one could not listen to these reports without being impressed by the many phases of work and the far-reaching influence for good of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. We cannot mention each department of work, but we wish to speak especially of the report on Scientific Temperance Instruction by Mrs. Mabel Shaw, the Medal Contest work by Mrs. Lucy Rockwell, Franchise by Mrs. W. W. Miller, and the report on Mother's Work by Mrs. Ruby Clow. Each superintendent in these departments particularly impressed all with the great importance of their line of work, and with the splendid results accomplished in their departments.

Mrs. Sharpe, of Blossburg, in a very impressive manner conducted the memorial service. Mrs. Strang, of Westfield, gave a helpful and instructive parliamentary drill.

After listening to reports of the various committees the convention adjourned to meet at Westfield in 1918.

The medal contest given under the direction of Mrs. Lucy Rockwell on Friday evening was enjoyed by those who remained for the evening. As this program appeared in last week's paper, we will not repeat it.

The work of the six contestants was much appreciated by the audience, as well as the solos by Miss Culver and the very beautiful solo, "A Dream of Paradise," by Donald Rockwell.

The judges awarded the gold medal to Miss Helen Bailey, of Wellsboro.

MYRA B. ALLEN,
Corresponding Secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Prouty, son, Lawrence, and daughter, Louise, went to West Pike recently to visit relatives and to fish for trout.

Huckleberry picking hasn't really commenced yet, as the berries are extremely late. Usually at this time of the year the picking should be at its best. A large truckload of men, over twenty, came from Coudersport Sunday to pick huckleberries, and a few others also went, but probably with indifferent success. The Cedar Run huckleberry hill is the mecca of pickers from far and near, people sometimes coming from as far away as Binghamton, N. Y., and other distant points.

Another lot of trout from one of the U. S. hatcheries in Virginia were distributed in this vicinity Saturday. The fish car was at Gaines Junction all day Saturday. There were five men with it. They eat and sleep in the car. They had a lot of trout and other fish to distribute at different places; also they brought along some large trout to eat. This is probably the first time that one of the U. S. fish cars has ever been through this section. Usually the fish are transferred to cans and brought in a baggage car up here. Another shipment is expected later; also shipment of various kinds of fish from the state hatcheries.

O. A. Champney and F. C. Ripley, who are hauling milk to the Galeton creamery, have each purchased an auto truck of Horn & Devling, agents, of Galeton. Mr. Champney and Millard Ripley went to Buffalo last week and ran them to Galeton, where they had racks made for them.

The wet weather has almost entirely prevented farmers from commencing haying so far, but as hay is late, it doesn't matter so much as it usually would. Some haven't finished hoeing yet and others who had a lot of ground ploughed for buckwheat have been unable to put it in until within the last few days. Probably it will be labor and seed thrown away for them to put it in so late.

Mrs. Julia Kjelgaard expects to purchase a lot of cows and to have her extensive farms placed under a better state of cultivation in the future than they have been for the last two or three years, as she has been unable to sell the place.

Stephen Tinder, of Galeton, was in town recently.

Two men from Emporium motored to this place Sunday.

Mason Dunmore recently called on friends near Jimtown, also at Watrous.

Ed. Gill, who has been working at Norwich for several months, recently returned home.

Earl Haner, who has been away peeling bark, has also returned home.

Hugh Marsh, wife and daughter, of Gaines, called on relatives here Sunday.

Free Talk from Forestry Dept.

Anti-conservationists to the contrary notwithstanding, the big reason for rising lumber prices is scarcity of accessible timber.

The chief difficulties in the way of general lumber trust are the competition of wood substitutes and the stock furnished by state and national forests.

One of the very few towns where taxes are assessed is Freudenstadt, Germany. This town of 7,000 has an annual governmental expense of $25,- and pays it all from the revenue of 300 acres of town forest.

Said the late Simon B. Elliott, one of the pioneer foresters of America: "I can come to no other conclusion than that of the 10,000,000 acres of non-agricultural land in Pennsylvania at least sixty per cent. is now, or soon will be, so devoid of uninjured trees of valuable species that it will not be planted to justify the payment of taxes."

For the first time in the history of forest fires in Pennsylvania, the big railroads have reimbursed the Commonwealth promptly for money expended for fire fighting and damage to state lands caused by fires started by locomotives. Scarcely any of the railroads have raised objections to paying these bills where it could be established that their engines or men were responsible for the fires.

Death of Electa M. Peters.

Miss Electa M. Peters, aged 82 years, died suddenly at the home of Mrs. F. G. Wood in Mansfield on July [illegible]

The funeral was held July 16 at 1 o'clock at the Wood residence, Rev. J. Van Kirk Wells, of the Presbyterian church, officiating; burial was at Mainesburg. About eighteen years ago Miss Peters came to Mansfield from Philadelphia, where for a period of thirty years she had been a nurse in a deaf and dumb institution. She was a member of the Presbyterian church. The only blood relative surviving Miss Peters is Geo. Peters, of Havelock, Neb.

Big Electric Deal.

The chief electric utilities in eastern Pennsylvania are about to be combined into a system with $40,-000,000 capitalization. General Electric, the largest independent anthracite corporation, and strong banking interests are back of the project. It aims to generate electric current in the coal region and to supply electricity for every purpose in Pennsylvania east of the Susquehanna river and also in parts of New Jersey.

ANOTHER WEEK OF WAR.

Summary of the News Since Our Last Issue.

WEDNESDAY'S NEWS.

There has been no relaxation in the intensity of the fighting between the French and the Germans on various sectors of the southern line in France from the region of Soissons eastward through the Champagne and into the district northeast of Verdun centering about the famous Hill 304.

Victories are recorded for both sides for the Germans along the Laon-Soissons road in the penetration and destruction of French trenches and in Champagne north of Mont Teton, where the forces of the Crown Prince previously had been repulsed with heavy casualties, and for the French in the Verdun sector, where Gen. Petain's forces in a mighty effort took enemy lines on a front of a mile and a half to a depth of about two-thirds of a mile.

The success of the Germans north of Mont Teton was obtained through persistent counter-attacks on positions they had lost Saturday, in which their losses had been extremely heavy.

The Russians in East Galicia have been forced for strategic reasons to evacuate the town of Kalusz and have taken up positions on the southern side of the Lomnica river. The important crossing of the Lomnica was made secure by the troops of Gen. Brussiloff after they made their retreat.

Plans of the leaders of both parties in Congress for quick action on the administration's aviation bill, providing a great program for striking at Germany through the air, promised to be blocked by a small group of senators, including La Follette and Gronna, who are planning to reopen the question of conscription.

The British Admiralty announces the capture of ofur German steamers by British destroyers in the North Sea. The steamers are the Pellworm, Brietzig, Marie Horn and Heinz Blumberg. Two other German steamers were with the four later captured when the group was signalled by the British war craft. All six made for the Dutch coast, and two of them reached the shore. These two were badly damaged by gunfire.

THURSDAY'S NEWS.

There has been remarkable increase in the last forty-eight hours in the volume of the enemy's fire around Lens salient from Hill 70, on the north, to Avion, on the south. In some places the German fire was of the nature presaging an assault, but the enemy's object was the destruction of our trenches and positions in the ruined houses in preparation for an attack.

Vimy, three miles from the nearest German battery, was bombarded with high explosives, six hundred 5.9 shells falling in a relatively small space. Avion and points to the north almost as far up the line as Vermelles, were subjected to fire of considerable intensity.

The enemy's observation was better than for some time past, eight balloons and many airplanes being engaged in spotting for his gunners.

The Canadian artillery was not diverted by the German activity from its appointed task of methodically destroying the enemy's trenches and defensive lines. In this work much progress was made during the day, as well as in counter battery operations.

The Germans during the night put down a barrage along a large part of the front under the belief that an advance was imminent, but no infantry action followed.

Berlin admitted reverses on both the British and French front in the west. To the British the Germans lost "a narrow sector west of du Vert wood," the statement admits, while the French, in a terrific three-hour attack in the Verdun region on the three-mile front between Avocourt wood and the region west of Dead Man hill, penetrated the German lines, retaking ground they had recently lost to the Teutons.

A fresh assault, Berlin asserts, was beaten off with sanguinary losses to the French.

Heavy artillery fighting on the coast in Flanders was reported in the German statement. It is asserted British reconnoitering detachments were repulsed.

The Paris communication tells of the repulses of German assaults between Avocourt and the western slopes of hill 304, in vain efforts to recapture the ground lost to Petain's troops yesterday.

The Germans have wrested the initiative temporarily from the Russians in Galicia, to-day official report from Petrograd shows. Thus far they have failed, however, to make any substantial headway.

The Russian war office concedes a temporary reverse about twenty miles below Kalusz, south of the village of Novica. Here the Germans, in a violent attack, drove the Russians from a height. General Korniloff's troops rallied, however, and regained the position.

The Teuton big guns are furiously active south of Brezezany and near Halicz, presaging a determined counter-offensive with the view of retaking these two strategical points.

Re-organization of the Atlantic fleet has been ordered by Secretary Daniels to meet new problems resulting from expansion of the force to almost twice its normal size for war service.

Official announcement is made that the United States transport service is taking over control of the French railroad lines from the port bases to the permanent camp and the front. Tracks are being laid and sidings enlarged. The roads will be manned later by American engineer regiments. American locomotives, mostly narow gauge, will be utilized. Most of the supplies will be imported from the United States.

FRIDAY'S NEWS.

Hav[illegible] heavy reinforcements along the line the Germans [illegible] Russians in Eastern Galicia have started what appears to be a [illegible] offensive against the Russians [illegible] Brody, near the southeastern [illegible] [illegible] are in [illegible] but have not yet developed [illegible] where particulars of the battle in their entirety are available.

The latest German [illegible] communication announces that the Germans have had the gage of battle thrust upon them by the Russians and in a counter attack on the line guarding Lemberg from the east have defeated the Russians over a wide front near Zlochow, which lies on the Tarnopol-Lemberg railway line about 40 miles distant from the capital.

To the north, in Volhynia, and still further north on various sectors to the Baltic sea, especially around Smorgon and Dvinsk, heavy artillery duels are being fought. Near Lutsk, in the famous Volhynian fortress triangle, the Germans report the capture of many Russian prisoners.

Apparently the Germans are intent on breaking the French line in the region between Soissons and Rheims, having delivered another tremendous assault from northeast of Craonne to east of Hurtebise. Into the fray were thrown picked troops, who were mown down everywhere, and the attack, like others that had preceded it, failed. Near St. Quentin, where for some time the situation has been calm, the Germans also delivered attacks on a front of about half a mile. Tere they succeeded in penetrating first-line positions, only to be expelled from them in a counter-attack.

There has ben no diminution in the artillery duels between the British and Germans in northern Belgium, nor in the ceaseless small attacks the British have been making against German trenches for many days. Around Monchy Le Preux these infantry attacks have resulted in the British regaining all the ground they lost to the Germans east of Arras July 11.

Mission, Tex. Approximately 500 shots were exchanged across the Rio Grange at Ojo de Agua, eight miles southwest of Mission, between a small American border patrol and a number of unidentified Mexicans. There were no American casualties.

Plans for the drawing to fix the order of military liability for nearly ten million registered men were materially changed and the intricate method of double drawing worked out by officials to lessen the physical task was abandoned. Instead of a process requiring not more than an hour and involving one set of numbers from one to one thousand and another from 0 to 10, it was decided to draw one at a time at least 10,-263 numbers.

DON'T WASTE FOOD.

Food Conservation is Urgently Necessary for the Next Few Years.

As Director of the Department of Civic Relief of the Local Committee of Public Safety, I have been asked to place in the hands of every editor in Tioga county, the inclosed circular letter, with the request that he give it prominence in his paper. It might interest the public to know that Mr. J. M. Frazer is the proprietor of the Bellevue Stratford in Philadelphia.

RUTH VAN VALKENBURG.

It has been earnestly and repeatedly urged upon the public by President Wilson and Food Administrator Herbert Hoover that food conservation and the elimination of food waste are vital essentials to our success in helping to win the great war in which our country and its allies are engaged.

No element of our war measure seems to be of graver importance or of more far reaching influence at this time than the question of the world food supply and it is an individual duty devolving upon every citizen to augment this supply to the greatest extent possible by wise economy.

Hotel and restaurant men and public caterers of every sort can do much to aid in this direction by careful planning of menus to cut down the excessive number of different foods offered for daily service without essentially detracting from the attractiveness of the service and by reducing portions that are now known by experience and practice to be in excess of the requirements of the average individual and are consequently conducive to extravagance and waste.

Additional assistance can be rendered to the cause of food conservation by the character of foods selected for service.

We can help out the meat supply by refusing to purchase veal, including sweetbreads and calves' liver, baby lamb, suckling pigs, ducklings, squab chickens (under 1¼ lbs.) etc., etc.

The use of sea food should be encouraged as far as practicable as a means of curtailing the use of beef.

The use of perishable articles, summer vegetables and fruits in season, should also be encouraged as a means of avoiding market waste through spoilage and consequent loss.

Corn and rye breads in various forms should be offered to the public regularly as a means of saving wheat. Corn bread three times a day.

Employees should be instructed and urged to co-operate in making the greatest possible saving in every department.

To the acceptance of such a movement the public is being rapidly educated and in fact some leading establishments are already offering their patrons "war portions" at a moderate reduction in price and increasing the number of single portions listed.

The further education of the public along these lines can be materially helped by printing at the head of the daily menu a legend to read in effect: We ask our patrons to aid us in an effort to conserve the country's food supply by a careful avoidance of waste.

Hotels operating on the American plan should print a request to patrons to exercise care in ordering as a measure of war economy.

The adoption and intelligent carrying out of such plans as here suggested will not only effect a material saving in operation but it is a patriotic duty which we should all be glad to perform as a part of our "bit" in the service that every man owes to his country in the time of need. Very truly yours,

J. M. FRAZIER, President,
Pennsylvania State Hotel Assn.

May Care for Pupils' Teeth and Eyes.

Two amendments to the school code were among the nine senate bills approved by Governor Brumbaugh. One provides that school districts may provide for the care of defective eyes and teeth of all their pupils, and the other provides for taking a census of a district when [illegible] to another district and there [illegible] the school [illegible] [illegible] bank or trust company organized under the laws of Pennsylvania may become a member of a federal reserve bank and be subject to its regulations, including reserve requirements.

RAILROADS SHORT OF MEN.

Some Important and Interesting Information for the Public.

To-day the railroads in Pennsylvania are actually short 1,477 men of the number required to perate trains which otherwise would be run. This present shortage is certain to be greatly increased as a result of the Adamson Eight-Hour Law and the conscription. To date the Adamson Law requirement has taken 5,496 men. It will still require 10,306 men to comply with that law.

The above figures must clearly demonstrate the real shortage of men for railroad service; first, because the railroads are now forced to curtail train service due to the lack of 1,477 men, and second, because with every effort to secure additional men it has been impossible to comply fully with the Adamson Law. In other words, while under the Adamson Law 16,-000 men are required, it has so far been possible to find only 5,500.

Next comes the conscription. On the railroads operating in Pennsylvania there are in two branches of the service, brakemen and firemen, 24,099 men who are subject to be called to army service. It appears to the railroads that the nation will be best served by keeping these men in their present occupations, but there is no doubt that a very large number of these men will feel it to be their duty to join the colors so that the final outcome will undoubedly be that a large number of these 24,000 men will leave railroad service shortly.

All of this makes a very serious and important problem not only for the railroads but for the public and the nation. It is imperative that railroad operations shall be as full as possible. Not only is there is vast volume of domestic traffic but there are troop trains to be moved, supplies must be provided at the various cantonments and shipments of war supplies abroad must be made.

To perform this service the railroads must have men. They have searched the country far and wide and are still doing so. In Pennsylvania there are some 2,000 trained and experienced trainmen now held in positions where their services are not needed who would be available to make good part of the present and prospective shortage immediately except for the so-called Full Crew Law.

There is now before the Governor, awaiting his approval, a bill passed by the last state legislature, suspending this law during the period of the war, which upon receiving his signature will make these 2,000 men available to fill up the shortage and expand railroad service.

FROM THE FIRING LINE.

A Williamsport Surgeon Writes from the Battle Front.

Lieut. John M. Nutt, of Williamsport, now in the American Ambulance Corps in France, gives some of his experiences in a letter home a few days ago. We make these extracts:

"We are working hard, living about as we would at the camp on the Schrader, without the water. It is all brought out in iron carts, warm, and tastes of chlorine. Everyone puts a lime juice preparation in it to cut the taste. We get plenty of fresh meat and bully beef, also potatoes, bread and sugar, but few fresh greens, however.

"One cannot go into details at all, but I must say you cannot describe the condition without seeing and hearing it. At night the horizon is constantly lit and not a single second passes without a flash. The sounds are not loud where we are, so we are quite in a safe position, though occasionally a shell passes over us, then the whiz-bang. One last night which was fairly close put the wind up here all right. By the time you get this we may be changed. I hope to get to a casualty clearing station. That is the place for surgery.

"I never look for an airplane any more. They are too common, but I would like to see some fighting—haven't as yet. I have seen them shelling Taubes. It is a great sight. They send shells up in brackets of three and five, bursting around the plane. You can watch the progress of the planes when they are so high as to be invisible by following up the brackets. It is awfully hot and dirty here, low and no shade, but except for lack of cool water for drinking and bathing purposes we are quite comfortable.

"The Tommies are a cheerful lot and can stand anything. The Australians are quite like ourselves, the very devils for discipline, but great fighters. We have lots of them on our hands at times.

"We have been very busy the last few days, as there have been some stunts up the line and many of the wounded have passed through our hands, some very bad ones, too. However, we cannot do much more up here than redress them, although I had one amputation Saturday night. I was up all night and sent through over 150 from our dressing station, some few of whom were Germans.

"It is awfully hot here in the middle of the day but the nights are fairly cool. As we are not allowed to indicate where we are, cannot say much except that we are in Belgian territory. There are eight of us at this post, five are young Englishmen, very nice chaps, too, and if it were not for the heat and scarcity of water for bathing we would be very comfortable. The bath tub is a portable one, three feet square and eight inches deep, one I bought in 'Blighty' (England).

"We eat and sleep in a board hut much like our fishing camps at home. It is not bad although being near a road on which is a constant stream of traffic it is dusty this hot weather. Just at present we are attached to a field ambulance which is not too near the front and are not exposed to shell fire. All the stories we have heard of the Germans attacking the medical units are not true and I believe they respect the Red Cross when they can. Of course if one happens to be in some dangerous position they may get injured but not intentionally—at least not now."

HOW THE DRAFT WORKS.

General Crowder Explains Method of Drawing Numbers for Conscription.

In explaining the drawing General Crowder issued the following:

"Ten million men are registered; 687,000 are needed in the first call. Who shall go first?

"If we were dealing with the ancient draft we should take every 14th man but we are not conscripting. We are selecting for military service those whose civil service can best be spared. Therefore the question is not 'Who shall go first, but 'Who shall be called first for examination?' And what we must do is to make a list showing the order of examination.

"Now no one knows how many men must be examined to yield 687,000 soldiers. Therefore no one can say just how many men it is absolutely necessary to put on this list. A moment's reflection will prove that the whole ten million must be given their places on the lists of 'order of examination.'

"Every registered man is in a state of uncertainty. He does not know when he will be called. He hesitates to plant a crop for fear he will not reap it. Employers hesitate to engage services fearing they will be but temporary. This condition ought to be cured for the repose of the public mind. It can be cured to some extent by putting every man on the list.

"For this reason the whole ten million names are to be given places on the list of the order of examination.

"Obviously no single agency could examine ten million men. Therefore the 10 million are segregated into groups of suitable size for convenient examination. There are 4,557 of these groups. For each group a board has been appointed to examine for selection. By far the greatest number of these groups consist approximately of 3,000 men.

"Since this is so our problem is not to put the whole 10 million names in one list arranged in the order of exemption. It is to determine the order of examination in each group of about 3,000 names.

"Since all registered men stand in an equality of right and duty, the question of priority can only be determined by lot or drawing.

"It will be possible to have 4,557 separate drawings, one for each group, but since methods would vary and since supervision and a safeguard insurance against the charge of fraudulent manipulation could not be had in this way every consideration of expediency and justice urges one drawing in Washington.

"In each group every registration card has a red ink number written on its face and these numbers run in a single series from unit one to the numbers corresponding to the greatest number of cards in the group. Normally this is from unit one to about 3,000.

"Exact copies of the cards in each group have been attested and sent to the various state capitols. Lists showing the name of each man in each group and the serial number of his card have been posted in the office of the board, published in the press and one copy is on file in Washington. There is therefore no chance of any man's number being changed without detection or any card being lost beyond replacement. We are dealing then with 4,557 groups of cards. Each group numbered in one series that normally runs from one to about 3,000.

"Suppose there were just 3,000 names and numbers in every group. It is at once apparent that it would be a very simple thing to have a central drawing that would control the order of every name and number in every group of the whole 10 million—just put 3,000 numbers into a bowl and draw them out one at a time. The first number drawn out would place the 4,557 cards bearing that particular number at the head of every list in the United States. The second number drawn would put the card bearing that number second on all of the lists, etc.

"Now the thing cannot be done in precisely this way because there are not precisely 3,000 numbers in every group, but the same idea with a few necessary modifications of the ideal on which the present drawing is based.

"The central drawing must comprise over 10,000 numbers because there are a few groups of over 10,000 numbers.

"To draw 10,000 separate names would take ten hours and would multiply the chance of error. Moreover if the 10,000, the 9,000, the 8,000 were scattered all over the master list indiscriminately the cancellation by the boards having small groups would be very tedious. All this is easily avoided.

"Suppose we drew only 1,000 numbers. We could then provide that the drawing of the number 878 would also draw the numbers 1,878, 2,878, 3,878, etc.

"In that way only 1,000 numbers need be drawn and by making our master list consist of 10 sheets (one sheet for each 1,000) we could provide a master list easily applicable to lists with only 3,000 numbers. Since such boards could disregard all except the first three sheets.

"We should do this but for the fact that this makes it certain that men in the first 1,000 would be called first, men in the second 1,000 next and men with the high serial number last of all.

"Since the assignment of numbers is also done by chance this does not interfere very greatly with the even chance of all men but it does interfere to some extent. For this reason it was decided to have one drawing to determine the order in which the sheets of 1,000 each should appear on the master list instead of assigning the sheets of 1,000 in their natural order. This reduces the whole matter to an absolute equality of chance. The method will be then:

"First, a drawing of numbers from zero to 10 to determine the order in which the sheets of 1,000 each shall appear on the master list.

"Second, a drawing of numbers from 1 to 1,000 to determine the order inside each group of 1,000.

"One group of numbers from 1 to 1,000 and a second group from zero to 10 have been carefully imprinted on slips of paper black on one side and checked. These slips have been rolled up and each put inside a gelatine capsule with the black side out, to insure the absolute accuracy of count. The capsules containing numbers from [illegible] 000 have been counted into [illegible] jars in groups of 100 each. The jars have been sealed and kept in a safe awaiting the [illegible] drawing.

The contents of the jars will be decanted into a large glass receptacle from which the capsules can be readily drawn. A blindfolded man will stir the capsules in the glass before they are drawn and will keep stirring them during the drawing.

"A blindfolded man will then draw capsules out one at a time. As each capsule is drawn it will be handed to an announcer who will break the capsule and announce the number drawn. The drawing will proceed in this way until all the capsules are drawn.

"Three tally sheets will be kept. One keeper of a tally sheet will repeat each number as it is announced and all three will write it down. In case of disagreement between tally sheets on any number, the sheets that agree will control.

"Each local board will by that time have been informed of the number of men that it must furnish to make up its share of the 687,000 men necessary on the first call.

"Each local board will then notify 200 per cent. of the number of men it must furnish to appear for examination and in so doing it will call them in the order thus determined by applying the master list to the local list. If after calling 200 per cent. for examination, of the first 200 per cent. it shall appear that the number thus called will not yield enough men to fill the quota the board will keep on calling men, until enough men have been called to fill the quota.

"(Signed)
"E. H. CROWDER,
"Provost Marshal General."

At the eleventh hour, after an elaborate system for drafting had been devised and made public, the whole scheme was thrown into the discard, the idea of using "key numbers" to shorten the procedure was abandoned, and it was determined to draw serially 10,500 numbers to cover the registered men in every district. Instead of completing the draft in an hour, as had been expected, the drawing took a whole day. The technique of the drawing remained unchanged.

The explanation of the sudden change is given thus by Provost Marshal General Crowder: "Advices received by long distance telephone indicate that in certain areas the boards, in numbering registration cards, kept the cards segregated by election districts and that serial numbers assigned to the whole group for a board, while the cards were thus segregated. If the drawing is conducted as originally planned, in groups of 1,000, the result will be that considerable proportions of certain election districts will be brought up for examination together.

"This will result in drafting persons from one locality within the jurisdiction of a board before any person is drawn from another locality within the same jurisdiction.

"For this reason it has been decided to abandon the drawing by thousands and to draw 10,500 numbers, which is in excess of the highest number of cards under the jurisdiction of any board.

"The only change in the plan will be that there will be one drawing instead of two. The advantage will be greater simplicity. The disadvantage will be that the drawing will require ten hours to complete."

The telephone message referred to by General Crowder in his statement came from the adjutant general of New Jersey. When that officer learned through publication of the system of double drawing announced earlier in the day, he saw immediately that a great injustice would be done in his state because of the way in which the local boards had given serial numbers to the cards from the registration precincts.

The New Jersey officer promptly communicated his discovery to the offices of the provost marshal general. A hasty conference of officials was called behind locked doors and a quick search made in the local board records of many states which had been received. A similar situation was found to exist in many parts of the country. In some lists colored and white registrants had been classified in separate groups and the serial numbers ran accordingly. In others, aliens were separated and given their own group of serial numbers.

It was a hopeless tangle. If the double drawing system were carried out, one election district in any exemption division might be swept clean of all its young men to fill the quota, while the other election districts in the same exemption area furnishes no men whatever. In other cases it might be necessary to pass upan and exempt a thousand aliens before a single American was called to service. In others a thousand negroes might be called for examination before a white man was called or vice versa.

There was only one way out, and the war department promptly announced that the whole intricate method of drawing to save time and labor, would be abandoned in favor of the simple direct plan of drawing sufficient numbers to fix the place of the last man in the largest exemption district. That was the original plan, and it was intended for weeks to draw in that way, but the enormous amount of labor and the time evolved prompted the effort to devise a short cut that would be fair to all.

TIOGA COUNTY LOCALS.

Happenings of General Interest in This County.

—Knoxville has 150 Red Cross workers actively engaged in making hospital supplies.

—Miss Hannah Cilly, of Knoxville, has gone to Buffalo to enter a nurse's training school.

—Zira Ward, formerly of Knoxville, died recently at his home at Gordonsville, Virginia.

—Officers of the Mansfield School Board for the ensuing year are: president, E. B. Dorsett; vice-president, G. E. Obourn; secretary, Edwin Passmore; treasurer, W. M. Barden.

—Robert R. Palmer and Miss Grace R. Burton, of Mansfield, were married at Elmira last Wednesday. They are honeymooning at Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer are popular young people and their numerous friends wish them abundant happiness and prosperity.

—Traffic on the N. Y. Central was tied up south of Corning last Tuesday for several hours by the derailing of 10 cars loaded with iron ore at Hammond. No one was injured. The accident was caused by the derailing of one of the cars in a freight bound for Newberry, caused by a hot journal.

—Mrs. C. L. Lewis has sold her house on St. James street in Mansfield to Mrs. Jennie Gillespie, of Dansville, N. Y. Mrs. Lewis will occupy rooms at Mrs. E. O. Cogswell's, corner Academy and Sherwood streets. Mrs. Gillespie will take possession August first.

—Simon Ellis has sold his house and lot on Mill street to William Button, who has vacated the property he sold to J. F. Eberle, and the same is being refitted and will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hanes when ready for occupancy.—Westfield Free Press.

—Mr. and Mrs. Gerald H. Seely are now residents of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where Mr. Seely is employed in the assembling department of the Fiat Motor Co., manufacturers of army trucks. He was engaged until the first of July in charge of the Star route between Knoxville and Troupsburg.

—Robert Keller was badly hurt recently at his home about three miles south of Knoxville. He was working with his son putting a new shingle roof on his barn when the scaffold on which he was standing broke, throwing him to the ground. It is thought that at least two ribs were broken and he is suffering internal injuries.

—Ada Arabelle Ripley, only child of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ripley, died at her home in Harrisburg July 13. The remains were taken to Mansfield and services were held at the home of Willard Warters at two o'clock July 16, Rev. J. VanKirk Wells officiating; burial in Prospect cemetery. Miss Ripley was born at Lambscreek, Mar. 13, 1876; moving to Harrisburg with her parents in 1899. Her parents survive her.

—W. H. Shaw has purchased a new one-ton Maxwell truck for use in his bakery business, says the Westfield Free Press. The present train schedule on the New York Central was principally responsible for the purchase, as he is determined that his customers shall have first-class service and if the railroads won't furnish a means Mr. Shaw will. One day recently Mr. Shaw baked 5,900 loaves of bread, which is the capacity of the oven. His regular demand crowds thirty thousand loaves a week, so until an additional oven is built "Pa's Bread" will not expand much in sales.

—The theft of a new buggy from one of the warehouses near the B. & S. station in Knoxville, that baffled the efforts of the authorities for several weeks, was cleared up recently by a very peculiar circumstance. A neighbor of the boys who took the vehicle was searching in the woods for some lost sheep when he tripped and fell on the portion of a buggy, which had been hidden under brush and leaves. A search revealed the other parts of an old buggy the boys said they had traded for the new one. The matter was promptly reported and in deference to the families directly concerned a settlement was made without arrest.

—E. H. Kimball has sold his photograph studio and fixtures to C. G. Wells, of Syracuse, who will take possession about September 1. Mr. and Mrs. Kimball have no definite plans for the future except that they will take a long vacation. Mr. Kimball's health has not been good for some time, and it is largely because of his physician's advice that he has sold out his business here. Mr. Kimball has conducted a photograph gallery here for over 15 years and has enjoyed a large patronage. He came here from Westfield, Pa. For the present, Mr. and Mrs. Kimball will retain their residence here, and will take a much needed rest before making any plans for the future.—Corning Leader.

[illegible] the past two months the subject of forming an organization for home defense has been receiving attention. Major [illegible] J. A. Elliott as president of the Business Men's Association has [illegible] correspondence with the State Adjutant General and with the War Department at Washington. A communication was received from Major John [illegible] Division of Department of Guards of the committee of Public Safety asking if there was any organization other than National Guards formed for Home Defense. Mr. Elliott replied that a company of 72 men was formed and awaited any action that might be taken concerning equipment, etc. In time a drum corps of about 12 members will be organized. It is planned that boys under age of eighteen years will comprise this corps and will be associated with the rifle club.—Advertiser.

—Sergeant Major James Donohue, of Elmira, was killed at the famous battle of Vimy Ridge when the Germans were driven back by the Canadians. The information came to John J. Donohue, of Elmira, in a letter telling of the death of Major Donohue while in command of a Canadian regiment. The letter was written by Major A. Ramussen, of the Seventh Canadian Ontario Brigade, B. E. F., the Princess Pat Regiment. Sergeant Major Donohue served in the United States army, enlisting at the time of the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, and then accepting four years' foreign service in the Philippines. At the outbreak of the European war he enlisted in the Princess Pat Regiment in August, 1914. Mr. Donohue was a barber in Elmira for a number of years. He once conducted a shop on Pennsylvania avenue, near Franklin street, and for a time was employed in the Langwell Hotel barber shop. The body was laid at rest on Vimy Ridge and a cross of wood temporarily marks his resting place.

—George Wright, of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, is visiting his friend, Morris Thompson, says the Mansfield Advertiser. Mr. Wright has served his enlistment with the Canadian army, and is recuperating from broken health before again taking up civilian duties. He was a member of the Canadian Fourth Machine Gun Company, and rose to the rank of Sergeant Major. This company was among the first to go to France and it participated in the battles of Ypres, St. Eloi and the Soumme. Mr. Wright went through all these big battle unscathed, but was so seriously wounded in a little trench skirmish that he had to be taken from the field on a stretcher. This was in December, 1915, and he spent several months in the hospital in England before he could return to the front. He was honorably discharged last October, when he returned to his home in Canada. He has some very interesting tales of life in the trenches and these are made doubly impressive by the fine lot of snapshots that he has taken of trench life, etc. All these photographs were taken by himself. He has also snapshots of the various branches of army service. He has a younger brother, not quite twenty, who has been fighting on the French front for more than a year.

LLOYD'S BODY FOUND.

Remains of Man Who Disappeared Last March Found in Canal at Buffalo.

The body of William E. Lloyd, freight agent of the Great Lakes Transit Corporation and a former prominent resident of Tioga and Corning, who disappeared March 17, was found floating in the Erie canal at the foot of Brace street in Buffalo last week Tuesday night.

Medical examiner George B. Stocker found no evidence of foul play. The theory is advanced that Lloyd ran into the canal in his touring-car and was drowned, the body being held under the automobile until it worked loose Tuesday night. The police are grappling for the car. "The scalp is gone, but I am positive after an examination that the skull was not fractured," Dr. Stocker said. "An autopsy will be of little value, the body is so decomposed." Lloyd disappeared St. Patrick's day. He was last seen on Main street in Buffalo driving his automobile just after he had left the Iroquois Hotel.

Captain Alfred Goetz, of a canal boat, discovered the body floating in the canal and notified the police. As soon as the body was taken to the morgue it was found it was that of Lloyd. A Knight Templar charm set with a diamond was found on the body. It was a gift of the shipmasters' association to Mr. Lloyd. An automobile license issued to Mr. Lloyd and several railroad passes in his name were also in the clothes.

In a pocket was found $15. After Lloyd disappeared, his friends made a very thorough search for him. The police of several states aided. Mr. Lloyd is survived by his widow and son in Buffalo. There was no reason for his disappearance. His accounts were correct to the cent. His relatives and friends believe he met death accidentally.

William E. Lloyd was a native of Tioga, Pa. About 20 years ago he resided in Corning, where he attended the Kerst Business School. Shortly after completing his course he went to Buffalo to accept a position. Mr. Lloyd married Eva Decker, of Lawrenceville. His mother-in-law is Mrs. Nora Decker, of Elmira.

The finding of the remains of William F. Lloyd in the Erie canal at Buffalo Tuesday night has cleared only part of the mystery which has surrounded Mr. Lloyd's disappearance. When Mr. Lloyd was last seen in Buffalo on St. Patrick's day he was driving his automobile. The car disappeared with him. No trace of the machine was found in the canal near the point where his body was found. The police dragged the bed in hopes of finding it.

Doan's Kidney Pills removed the backache and the annoyance from my kidneys left. I have had no sign of the trouble since."

"DOINGS" HERE NEXT WEEK.

Wellsboro Will Entertain Governors of Susquehanna Trail Association.

The Board of Governors of the Susquehanna Trail Association start next Wednesday from Williamsport on a tour of the northern end of the proposed Susquehanna Trail, a projected main highway from the Lincoln Highway at Harrisburg to the New York state line. Most of the route between Harrisburg and Trout Run, north of Williamsport, has been selected, but, as nearly everybody knows, there is keen rivalry between Tioga and Bradford counties as to the location of the route north from Trout Run.

The Board of Governors, after this tour, will decide on which route to recommend for improvement as a part of the Susquehanna Trail. The governors and their wives will be accompanied by other members of the association and will be entertained along the route by the people of the various towns. They will stay in Wellsboro over night next Wednesday, Aug. 1st.

Wellsborough's Military Band have kindly consented to give their weekly concert that night instead of Friday, and this will add greatly to the pleasure of the evening for the visitors. There will also be speeches and other forms of entertainment. Everybody for miles around who can come to Wellsboro Aug. 1st to welcome our distinguished visitors, is cordially invited, and urged, to do so. There will be large delegations from Galeton, Gaines and vicinity, and other parts of Potter county, as well as from the Cowanesque Valley, Liberty, Blossburg, and Mansfield. Crank up your car, load in your family and come to the band concert on the public square. Don't forget the date, next week Wednesday evening, Aug. 1st.

The board of governors are to be royally entertained at Liberty, Blossburg and Mansfield, en route to Wellsboro. Thursday Tioga and Lawrenceville and delegations from the Cowanesque Valley will welcome the tourists in an appropriate manner. Thursday noon they will be guests of the Corning Chamber of Commerce at luncheon at the Corning Club and Troy will entertain them Thursday night on the return trip via the rival route. It is expected that 17 to 20 cars will make the entire trip, escorted on sections of the route by people of the respective towns through which the tour is made.

Don't forget to come to Wellsboro next Wednesday night, Aug. 1st; let us make the visitors cordially welcome.

NEW DOG LAWS.

A Dog Caught Running in Woods May Be Killed.

On June 1st the new game law became effective, most of this new law merely being the old law reduced to one comprehensive act, with a limited number of new features. Section 26 of this new act contains the same provisions as Section 21 of the Act of May 1st, 1909, as amended by the Act of April 15th, 1915, absolutely prohibiting dogs from chasing and destroying game and wild birds during the close season. Under the old law, however, there was no specific penalty imposed upon the owners of dogs so permitted to run at large and destroy game, except the killing of same. The new act contains an additional clause, which reads as follows:

"Any person who shall either knowingly or negligently permit his dog, or a dog under his control, to pursue small game during the close season off land he may own or control, after notice as before stated, shall be liable to a penalty of ten dollars for each day small game may be pursued in violation of this section, and to an additional penalty of five dollars for each game-bird or rabbit killed by such dog pursuing game without the aid or direction of its master."

All state officers have been instructed to enforce this provision strictly, bearing in mind, of course, a policy to use good judgment in all cases, and as far as possible to give the general public notice regarding this condition, which is the purpose of this notice.

—Monday morning the Wellsboro plant of the Corning Glass Works started work after a four weeks' vacation. The plant was closed for the annual summer vacation on June 23. As soon as it was possible, after the fires were out and the tank was sufficiently cooled, the H. L. Dixon Company, of Pittsburgh, made extensive repairs to the tank and by working a large number of men, it was possible to complete the repairs and resume operation at the plant a week earlier than was expected. The repairs were extensive and the tank is in as good condition as when originally built. A number of changes have been made, improving the working conditions, and the working capacity has been increased from twenty-one openings for the purpose of gathering glass to twenty-two. This means that a larger force will be employed at the factory in the manufacture of ware and tubing.

Monday evening a Ford car carrying three young women and three young men from Wellsboro came to grief at the corner of Elmira and Main street in Mansfield, says the Advertiser. The car ran against a maple tree and demolished the hood, windshield and disarranged the front seat somewhat. One of the women was thrown to the sidewalk and a gash cut in her forehead, one arm severely strained and probably two or more ribs cracked. The car was being driven at a moderate rate of speed through Main street, destination Elmira. The turn to Elmira street wasn't noticed soon enough and the driver set his brakes and attempted to change direction. The party engaged W. H. Killgore to carry them to Elmira, where after an evening at Rorick's he took them to their home in Wellsboro. At Elmira the young woman who was injured received medical treatment. Aside from wondering what the folks at home would say, the young people were not disturbed to any extent. The Ford is at the Mansfield garage.

HAROLD B. SCHOTTE.

The part of Grenicheux in the coming production of "The Chimes of Normandy" at the local Chautauqua will be played by Harold B. Schotte, who began his musical career in Boston, studying at the New England Conservatory of Music, and while there held a position in three of the leading Boston choirs as soloist. After finishing at the conservatory he was engaged to perform in several amateur productions, and then in 1914 had a season with a stock company, playing in several standard operas. Since then he has played in vaudeville, and in the summer of 1916 was a member of the Mikado company on the Chautauqua circuit. During the past winter he has had a season of seventeen weeks in the part of Grenicheux with "The Chimes of Normandy."

HOME GROWN.

"I've been thinking this over for a long time," said Peter MacQueen in a recent lecture, according to the Bridgeport (Conn.) "Telegram." "Why don't we exchange the Philippines for Ireland? Then we could raise our own policemen at home!"

American manufacturers have contracts for $361,000,000 in new equipment for our railroads.

Plans are being discussed for the next popular government loan, which it is understood will be for three billion dollars.

Seven measured acres in a Kansas wheat field yielded 68 bushels to the acre, and 200 acres on the same farm produced an average of 50 bushels to the acre.

Money invested in Liberty bonds is not tied up. It will all be spent in this country and become a more active circulating medium than before it was invested.

The Cuban congress has passed a bill calling for a bond issue of $30,000,000 to provide funds for carrying on Cuba's part in the war. The bill was passed unanimously by both houses.

Lycoming county contributed to the great Red Cross fund $91,757.01, of which amount the city of Williamsport is credited with over $74,000. Almost 13,000 people helped to swell the fund.

Former Governor John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania, has become a voluntary assistant of Herbert C. Hoover to help in the food conservation of the country. He will have special charge of organizing fraternal societies for pushing the work.

This government is to build 22,000 airships. Great Britain has already contracted for many thousands of aircraft of various types, to be built in the United States. It appears that the military experts are right in their estimate that the airplanes will play a large part in deciding the war.

In Kansas City a few days ago three Germans were arrested on the charge of attempting to spread deadly disease germs through the medium of court-plaster which they were peddling at a nominal price. The analysis of the court-plaster revealed the conspiracy and Federal officers made the arrests at once.

Auditor General Snyder has refused to pay the salaries of any of the new state officials appointed by Governor Brumbaugh after the refusal of the Senate to confirm them. Thus he crosses swords with the Governor and forces an early fight in the courts to test the legality of the Governor's action.

Now that the government is going into the booze business, what will it do with all the whisky now in bond which it proposes to buy? There are millions of barrels. It will cost more than it is worth to make alcohol of it for mechanical purposes. There will be no end of lawsuits to follow and government claim agents will reap a rich harvest.

A Canadian aviator has made a record of efficiency in war service. He has been awarded the Victoria Cross for sinking a German submarine single handed by swooping down in his seaplane and dropping bombs. A few days later he attacked a German Zeppelin and sent it down in flames with the loss of its entire crew.

"Primarily, it is not dissatisfaction with the political state of Germany but dissatisfaction with the military state of Germany which is responsible for the agitation that compelled the Kaiser to get rid of his Chancellor and his other Ministers. If the German armies were winning victories in the field, if the German submarines were starving England and the German fleet were challenging British supremacy of the sea, there would be no political crisis in Germany and no serious demand for political reforms.

THE MEN FOR THE ARMY.

The Agitator publishes in this issue the complete list of the men from Tioga county included in the draft. We published the registration list as it came out. But the list printed today shows the order in which men will be examined and taken for active service. To give this information to our readers involved a vast amount of hard labor. Every one of the 2,846 names on the registration list has been arranged in proper order as they were drawn in Washington last Friday.

It is probable that the examination for the first call to the colors will embrace the first 600 or 700 names on the list we printed. The quota for Tioga county is said to be 287. Therefore enough men will have to be examined until that number of sound persons are passed who have no valid claim for exemption. After that is done and when it is necessary to call a second class the examiners will begin where they left off this time and go on down the list in regular order. And so the registered men will stand in regular order for conscription till the whole number is called or until the war is over.

This issue of the Agitator will be worth preserving. It is not only valuable to every registered man and his family while the war lasts but it will for years be of historical interest in Tioga county. While this draft list is not official, we believe it to be substantially correct. Up to the time of our going to press the official lists of numbers had not been sent out from Washington.

STATE BUREAU OF MARKETS.

The Sproul bill, creating a bureau of markets for agricultural products within the Department of Agriculture, which was approved by the Governor, may help solve the question of the high cost of farm produce and milk. That is the purpose of creating the bureau, which will be under the supervision of a director.

The new law, which is effective at once, carries an appropriation of $25,000 for the two years beginning July 1. The purpose of the law, as set forth in its provisions, is to promote proper, efficient and economical handling, packing, transportation, storage, distribution, inspection and sale of agricultural products of all kinds in Pennsylvania.

Under this law the direction of the market bureau will, by keeping in close touch with all communities, assist producers and consumers in selling and purchasing produce under fair conditions and at reasonable prices.

The director is empowered to investigate delays, embargoes, conditions, practices, charges and rates in the transportation and handling of products and he may institute proceedings in court to improve conditions if he finds them unsatisfactory. When he finds that any agricultural products are liable to spoil or waste or depreciate in value for lack of a ready market, he may "take such steps as may be deemed advisable" to benefit the producers, distributors and consumers and to prevent waste.

The Bureau of Markets will cooperate with the Granges and all farmers' organizations and the railroads. Co-operative marketing organizations will be formed at various points. There will be a star-inspection label adopted, which will go as a guarantee for Pennsylvania products, and the aim will be to make Pennsylvania products bearing the state label famous for their quality throughout the country.

The announcement of the approval of the bill was followed by a conference held at the executive mansion between the Governor, Secretary of Agriculture Patton, Edward B. Dorsett, former Sheriff of Tioga county, who is mentioned as likely to be named the first director, and members of the farm counselor corps, who have been engaged by the State Commission of Safety and Defense to advise farmers.

Purchasing the Farm Tractor.

Extensive preparation for the seeding of a large acreage of fall grain is creating a larger interest in farm tractors. Many farmers are thinking of purchase and yet are at a loss to know what constitutes a durable and economical machine and one adapted to their particular needs.

The problem of selecting a farm tractor is one requiring the most careful investigation and study before the purchase is made or much dissatisfaction and loss is sure to result.

"Most any machine in the hands of an experienced operator can be made to show up well in a demonstration," says J. T. Campbell, of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, "but it is very unwise to decide from what the demonstration shows. The clever operator knows how to hide the weakness as well as display the good points of his machine. After an extensive study of the subject, I am satisfied there are some tractors on the market which are well adapted to Pennsylvania conditions and in the hands of careful operators will give good and economical service. There are also many crude experimental machines that will be only a nuisance and an expense to the owner.

"The four-wheel type with gears all enclosed and running in oil will be found more adaptable on many farms where a variety of work is to be done. Many tractors give a good account of themselves at plowing and are of little value in other work. A single small narrow rim steering wheel will fail at harrowing in mellow or soft land. Some types can be satisfactorily turned only in one direction. Any machine will need occasional adjustment and repair. Accessibility to all the working parts is a factor that is generally overlooked, yet is a very important consideration. There is less vibration and more steady power with the four-cylinder automobile twpe motor, but the two-cylinder opposing type motor is the better adapted to the buring of kerosene. It is doubtful if kerosene is any more economical than gasoline, all things considered."

Adding to Food Supply.

How will the canning, curing, and preserving of home-grown and farm-raised products add to the country's store of food? If the farmer and his family do not themselves work up the fruits, vegetables, and other products of the farm, will not these things be marketed in the raw state, and will not all not immediately consumed be cared for most economically and efficiently by large factories, canning plants, and cold-storage establishments? Theoretically, it might seem so. In practice, though, such is not the case.

Only a small per cent. of the farms in the United States are within easy reach of profitable markets for vegetables, fruits, and other highly perishable products. The local merchant in the small town can buy but a limited quantity, if any, of these garden and orchard crops. The average family in this same small town has its own garden, and often its own berry patch as well as fruit trees. So there is practically no home demand.

What does all this mean? The answer is that on the average general farm truck grown and not immediately consumed is allowed to go to waste. There is an abundance of everything during the summer season. Often, though, no provision is made for the year's supply. Canned goods and, not infrequently, jellies and preserves are bought of the local merchain when winter comes. This represents a double loss. Not only has much of the raw product been allowed to go to waste, but because of the increased demand—a demand from those who should have been producers—the man in the city must pay more.

The big problem at this time is to provide a plan for saving all that is produced—to practice some old-fashioned economy. The call is for more canneries and fewer can openers.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body; and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building-tonic, free from alcohol or any harmful drugs. Try it.

MODERN PERILS OF THE DEEP.

Extra Frights Contributed by His Excellency Bill Kaiser, the Apostle of Frightfulness. Porto Rican Guardsmen on the Job.

"People traveling for pleasure should keep off from boats."

This bit of wisdom was offered by an officer on our West Indies steamer as he leaned against the gray rail of the hurricane deck and thoughtfully nursed the big navy revolver hanging on his hip.

No one disputed him and so far as could be ascertained no one on his ship was traveling for pleasure. If they were they took their pleasure mightly seriously.

A four days' trip from Porto Rico to New York under ordinary conditions is a pleasure. Leaving the tropics for the north always brings its little thrill of contentment. Behind you lies the land of the royal palm with its romance and mystery; its rich colors and lavish and luxurious flora; its blue sky and bluer sea. Memories of tropical moonlight when it seems one could almost reach up into the velvet sky and touch the moon and stars, memories of racing lace covered serf breaking in the bluest of blue waves on a coral shore; memories of strange and interesting people and pictures of strange foreign customs, enacted in strange and foreign looking streets, before strange and foreign looking buildings, all lend charm and satisfaction which we mentally card index as we turn to the north. We begin to wonder what is doing at home, and we long for the breath of northern air which carries the wine of energy to replace the lassitude which the rays of tropical sunshine have already carried beneath our sunburned skin.

There is something of the way we used to feel when we crossed the bar leading north.

But now all is different. Everything is changed. Even the ship. We once knew our ship by her paint. But all ships look alike when bedaubed with battleship gray. Our ship looked like a gray ghost and as she streaked through the waters at night, crowding every ounce of steam she could carry, with narry a light to guide her on her way, she acted very much like a ghost as or near like it as her 12,000 tons would permit.

We saw no submarines by day and by night we were not permitted to see. Our windows were shuttered, the doors, save one hidden by a blanket, were roped shut and we were not permitted the consolation of even smoking on deck. So much for safety first. The theory of navigation nowadays seems to be a game of hide and seek. If you can't disarm the other fellow at least hide the target. The idea that a long three deck ship with a promenade of seven laps to the mile could hide itself against the sky and sea seems absurd on first thought, but it isn't so foolish as it seems. The sea is extremely wide and roomy. The ocean liner has no fixed path. To sink a boat one must first catch it, and in the case of a sub it is necessary to get to the spot first and wait there. The way they are painting the ships now it is difficult to separate ship from shadow and with the speed obtained on our boat little time was allowed for the other fellow to make up his mind.

We were not, however, concerned about submarines. Far from it. Not a passenger on the boat would admit he was afraid of 'em. Occasionally the submarine was used as a point to some feeble joke, and everybody laughed uproariously for fear he would appear nervous. No, we were all very careless and mind-free regarding subs and torpedoes but it will never be known how many of us slept with our clothing on. But of course none of us did this because we were afraid. We had no lights by which to undress and we are most of us undecided as yet as to whether we resented the inconvenience or welcomed the excuse.

The easy life aboard a modern vessel is conductive to pleasure. We feed well, sleep well and loaf well—ordinarily. But how can one feed well when in the doorway of the dining room stands two stalwart Porto Rican troopers with fixed bayonets, never taking their eyes off a group of German prisoners at the next table? Of course we don't care so much about the Germans, but suppose something started. A dining saloon is rather close range, and those soldiers do handle their guns somewhat careless.

Speaking of the German prisoners, we are reminded that their quarters were directly over ours. All night long we heard the tramp, tramp, of the Porto Rican guardsmen as they watch before the door of the Germans. There is comfort in the thought of those soldiers and their presence gives a sense of security if only they would not get seasick and drop their cartridges right over the head of our bunk, and we in the upper berth. To one unaccustomed to the ways of the army there is a sort of fascination in watching a soldier load his musket. He deftly inserts a sort of metallic hand in the breech of his gun. This hand has five very long cold looking fingers extremely sharp and business-like, each one capable of carrying 3,000 yards, and penetrating Lord knows how many thicknesses of plank—a ship's deck for instance and possibly a passenger or so. And as we ruminate on this possibility we again agree with the wisdom of the officer. There is no pleasure in sea travel these days.

Someone is always taking the joy out of life anyhow. As a rule a ship's officer is a good fellow and full of information. He will patiently enlighten each flock of passengers on the mystery of eight bells, starboard and port, etc. He will even fail to show annoyance when you mention "down cellar" instead of going below, and back and front instead of fore and aft, and calling the dining room dignitary "head waiter" instead of first, second or ... chief steward, and all s... h... ship's officer with a big navy a... matic strapped ... is wais... entirely dif-...

There is a dignity about a sea liner racing home in her war colors to get her baptism of four inch guns which no ... can mistake. He may slide into ... obscure corner on deck to watch the tropic sun dip into the ... and in the ... glass ... but ... he will remember long before the curt command of "lights out," greets his ears, for the fitful glare of the match has already lighted on the uniform of a deck officer and the very central focusing point is sure to be the navy revolver. You will then sneak up to the smoking room and stifle there in the heat of closed windows and burning nicotine, which will soon drive you on the darkened deck again. After running the maze of the blanketed passage you may run directly into the arms of an officer who is clearing the deck for the Porto Rican guard to bring aft the German prisoners from the dining room. Ugh! Supposing they mistook you for a German and ran you aft with the bunch. Somehow you seem nearer those Porto Rican guardsmen with their fixed bayonets than ever before, and you agree with the officer, "there is no pleasure in traveling."

Before going to sea you were aware that war had been declared and you on the wrong side of the map. Traveling home ceases to be a pleasure. On the other hand it is very much of a business and a serious business at that. But you never realized that war would come so frightfully near home. Even though you never sight a periscope, or dodge a mine, you are acutely aware of the possibility, and you have all the sensations, right up to the point of contact, that can come to any man. Traveling for pleasure seems a thing of the past. It seems ages and ages since you stretched out comfortably on a deck chair and relaxed. That was before the war. Nowadays deck chairs are not so comfortable. Ships are not comfortable. Officers are not companionable. The captain instead of a sort of social leader has become a thing apart, a presence, a being, an object of hope and fear—both in one.

Therefore take the advice of the officer with the automatic. If in search of pleasure don't go to sea, for there is but one pleasure in the whole trip and that is to watch them open the formidable mined gate at the entrance of New York harbor and permit you to sail in under the extremely grim and business like guns of the silent monitor which guards the entrance.

LOU. D. MacWETHY.

Raise the Heifer Calf.

The dairy cow is the most economical converter of coarse roughage into human food products. The present war is, in a measure, a food war. The importance, then, both of maintaining and increasing our dairy food supplies cannot be over-emphasized.

The high price of beef and veal will have a tendency to deplete the number of dairy cows kept and the number of heifer calves raised. A note of warning is therefore sounded to those who contemplate selling their dairy cows or who are not raising the heifer calves from their better cows. The prices of feeds are high but the prices paid for dairy products are also increasing, and in view of the present situation will continue to increase.

Raise the heifer calves from the good cows in the herd and from a purebred dairy bull of high-producing ancestry should be a nation-wide slogan. The following brief suggestions relatives to the raising of calves may be helpful.

To insure strong, vigorous, healthy calves one must begin caring for them before birth by providing the pregnant mother with palatable and nutritious food rich in protein and ash. Clover hay, corn silage, and from 2 to 4 pounds of a grain mixture composed of 2 parts oats, 2 parts wheat barn and 1 part by weight of linseed oil meal, form an excellent ration for this purpose. Grain should be fed sparingly for a few days prior to and after calving.

It is important that the calf receive the first or colostrum milk of the dam, since this is rich in mineral matter and has laxative properties necessary to prevent digestive disorders. The calf should be removed from its dam by the time it is 3 days old. The cow's milk is usually fit for human use at this time.

For the first two weeks the calf should be fed three times daily. During the first week it should receive 8 to 10 pounds of milk per day and during the second week 10 to 12 pounds per day. Beginning with the third week, milk and a grain supplement, or skimmilk substitute and a grain supplement, may gradually replace whole milk. By the end of the third or fourth week therefore, according to the size and vigor of the calf, the whole milk may be omitted from the feed. The amount of skimmilk may gradually be increased to 16 or 18 pounds daily.

The grain is best fed dry, beginning with a handful after feeding the milk. When the calf is one month old and is being fed entirely on skimmilk, or skimmilk substitute, clover hay and grain, the amount of grain may be one-half pound daily. At the end of two months it may be 1 pound, and at the end of three months 2 pounds daily.

The commonest trouble in raising calves is indigestion or scours. This can usually be traced to one or more of the following causes, viz: too much milk, cold milk, sour milk, unclean milk, unclean pails, unclean surroundings. The best remedy is to remove the cause. When a severe case appears, the feed should be at once reduced. Three ounces of castor oil in a pint of milk should be given, followed in 4 to 6 hours by a teaspoonful of a mixture of 1 part salol and 2 parts sub-nitarte of bismuth 3 times daily, until the condition of the calf improves.

WHAT IS FOOD ECONOMY?

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., LL. D., Sc., Commissioner of Health.

Hysteria of the individual is very catching, often becoming an epidemic. Community hysteria in a representative form of government destroys its efficiency. Hysterical people are apt to run to great excesses and neglect those things in life which are of the greatest importance, not only to the success of the individual but of the community. At present, we find individuals and whole communities hysterical on the economy of food-stuffs, even to the extreme of confining themselves to a maize (corn) diet instead of having a well balanced diet with the variety of food that will not only stimulate the appetite and the digestive glands, but will meet nature's demands.

Man is an omniverous being. We can best economize by eating what agrees with us. To resist tuberculosis and other wasting diseases and to keep in the best form for the working of our physical and mental body, particularly in these times of high nervous tension, we should have meat or some good vegetable protein as a substitute in moderation once a day.

In addition to this we want fat, preferably butter or cream or fats of animals, the latter only cooked sufficiently to heat them through. With the proteins and fats we want a carbohydrate (starch or sugar).

To-day there are many diet lists being given to the public worked up into tables based upon their heat-producing power. The trouble with these diet receipts is that they are based upon tests made upon those having perfect digestion and a normal amount of physical exercise in a normal atmosphere.

Life is a factor scientific medicine cannot measure. It forbids the human body from being compared with an inorganic machine or test tube experiments in the laboratory.

The digestive tract and its many glands that vary in their powers to prepare food for the assimilation of the body, are governed by the nervous system. They vary greatly in their life power to produce digestive secretions. For the reasons given each individual, after once realizing that meats, fat, starches and sugar are necessary in various proportions to maintain his health, will have to make an intensive study of what digests, so as to give him the best health and keep up his weight to give him energy, and permit him to sleep, and to be of good cheer.

You will always find that people differ from each other in their selection of foodstuffs, some doing well on a large proportion of vegetable food, others doing better on a reasonable amount of meat and carbohydrates or starch, while others have to avoid starches and sugar to prevent violent indigestion and ill health.

We often find powerful men who live on very little food, while many frail, illy nourished people have good appetites and eat plenty. These things are hard to explain. The laws of nature are so profound that even to-day in this scientific age we find the digestion of people differs so that we must at present attribute it to the variation of life force.

From our actual experience in life, after long devotion to the feeding of people, we have learned that a mixed diet is essential to good health. The practical experience of the individual must be a factor in guiding him in the selection of foods and the quantity he can eat.

MEN WHO ARE CALLED.

List of Registered Men Who Are to Report for Examination and Selection.

The great lottery to fix the order of liability for military service of each of the 10,000,000 men of the United States registered for war began at 9:49 o'clock Friday morning. From the 1,370,000 called the boards are to select 687,000 for America's first draft army of 500,000 and to fill up vacancies in the National Guard and the regular army.

In a committee room of the Senate office building, with representatives of the press present, War Department officials and members of the Senate and House military committees began the drawing of 10,500 slips bearing numbers corresponding with the serial numbers of each registrant in the largest district in the country.

Secretary Baker was first to withdraw a capsule enclosed slip from a great glass bowl. Blindfolded, he drew 258. In every district in which as many as 258 men are registered, number 258 heads the list of those to be called.

Chairman Chamberlain of the Senate Military Committee drew the second number, 2,522. Blindfolded and plainly nervous, he was unable to locate the wide-mouthed glass bowl unaided and after he had groped futily for a few seconds an attendant guided his hand to the capsules.

The handkerchief then was placed over the eyes of Chairman Dent of the House military committee and he withdrew the third, 9,613.

They drew the numbers from a wide-mouthed bowl set on a table. The bowl was large enough to contain three times the number of gelatine capsules which were placed in it. The bits of paper, blackened on the back so that from the outside none could determine the numbers stamped thereon, were curled into the capsules.

In only a small number of the districts will the numbers above a few thousand affect registrants. Of the 4,557 registration districts throughout the country the largest has something over 10,200 numbers, while the smallest has only about 185 and the average is around 3,000. As the drawing proceeded 157 numbers were withdrawn before one low enough to affect the smallest district came out. It was 126, placing 4,557 men numbered 126 on the local lists as 157th in order of liability.

It was officially estimated that approximately 1,000,000 men were represented in the first 1,000 numbers which had been drawn at 11:32 o'clock, a little over an hour and a half after the drawing began.

The system of "key numbers" announced Thursday, having been abandoned after mix-ups in the methods of numbering registration cards were discovered in New Jersey and other staes, the drawing proceeded as was originally planned, with 10,500 numbers in capsules in a bowl, all of which were drawn. Instead of taking an hour's time, as was estimated under the "key number system," the drawing took many hours.

One district in Michigan has 10,263 numbers, so it was necessary to draw that many. In order that there will be no shortage, it was decided to draw 10,500.

The men whose numbers are drawn will be called up in the order in which the numbers appear. The numbers appearing before the names below also apply in every other district in the country.

In the first numbers drawn there were 270 numbers which affected the average district of 3,000 registrants. Applying this to the entire country, these 270 serial numbers below 3,000 should designate approximately 1,200,000 men. Of the first 1,500 numbers drawn, 405 were below 3,000. If the normal district had 3,000 registrants, then names designated by the 405 is about 1,600,000.

In the drawing of 10,500 names, every man in the whole United States who registered is drawn. The order in which the numbers were drawn makes the order in which the men are to be examined. For instance the first number drawn was 258. Every man whose card is numbered 258 will be the first man called before the examining board. No. 2,522 the second man drawn, will be next examined, etc. When the respective districts have their quota filled, examinations will stop for the time being. Later if more men are needed the examiners will begin with the number where they left off.

There are 4,557 districts in the country. If every district had 3,000 men registered, then the first number drawn, 258, would call 4,557 men, and the first 100 numbers drawn would call out 455,700 men. Three hundred numbers would call for 1,367,100 men, or enough, allowing for expected valid claims for exemption, to furnish 687,000 men for the first army.

But although the normal number of men enrolled in a district is 3,000, one has only 187, and others have 6,000 to 10,000. Allowing for these, it is estimated in Washington that the first 1,000 numbers drawn will supply all the men needed for the first levy.

There are more than 1,500 names printed below. The balance of the list will be printed in our next issue. Those whose names are not found here will not be called for examination until another big army is needed by Uncle Sam.

Tioga county will have to furnish 287 men for the first army. Allowing that fifty per cent. will be exempted, it is safe to say that not to exceed 600 of the men named below will be called for examination for the first army. The following names are printed in the order in which they will be called for examination to pass for service or to be exempted. The list below covers more men than are likely to be drawn for the first and second army. The second army may not be called out this year.
